

Hemophagocytic Lymphohistiocytosis in a patient with Human Immunodeficiency virus

Talal Bazzi¹

¹Ascension St John Detroit Riverview Center

January 25, 2023

Abstract

Hemophagocytic Lymphohistiocytosis (HLH) is a rare and aggressive disease that presents similar to septic shock which often goes misdiagnosed. Treatment options include immunosuppressive and chemotherapy options with ultimate treatment being stem cell transplantation. Here we present a case of HLH in a patient with HIV.

Hosted file

Hemophagocytic Lymphohistiocytosis in a patient with Human Immunodeficiency virus.doc available at <https://authorea.com/users/579568/articles/620974-hemophagocytic-lymphohistiocytosis-in-a-patient-with-human-immunodeficiency-virus>